STRAIGHT TRAIN INTO CENTRAL LONDON IN 30 MINS

RIVERSIDE WALKS WITHIN HISTORIC LANDMARKS

If you are looking for an open space for your morning walk, Bushy Park is located just across the Kingston Bridge, boasting some 750 acres of rolling green parkland. These historic parklands were home to royal livestock, including King Henry VII's deer. Within these spectacular green spaces, residents will also find the internationally renowned Hampton Court Palace, famed for its opulent status. The Palace hosts an annual RHS Festival – the largest flower show in the world, certainly a spectacle that should not be missed. Alternatively, one of London's largest green spaces, Richmond Park, is just a short drive away. The park's 2500 acres of green spaces houses some of the oldest trees to be found inside the United Kingdom and is perfectly placed for a long stroll or picnic.

Whilst the surrounding area is certainly a location of historical significance, it is not caught in the past, but instead offers a vibrant and cosmopolitan community that has generated its own distinctive local style. The local area has a wide array of bars, restaurants, pubs and cafes and attracts crowds from the nearby Kingston University and Kingston College. The picturesque River Thames also entices local walkers, runners and picnickers to the area.

A SOCIAL HUB

Over the years Surbiton has become the preferred destination for those looking for easy access to the centre of London. Oakhill Mews is perfectly positioned, ensuring residents have easy access to all that the capital has to offer. From commuting into town for work to visiting for a shopping or theatre trip, the location of the development is perfectly placed for a modern and dynamic lifestyle.

Oakhill Mews is located within walking distance of many local highlights. Local dining spots such as The French Table are just a stroll away. Here, residents can enjoy a luxurious afternoon tea. Whereas at The Antelope locals may choose to partake in a quick drink to unwind following work. The bohemian nature of Surbiton ensures that there is an array of choices to dine, drink and relax.

CULTURE OF SHOPPING

Every month, the residents of Surbiton enjoy the local Farmers' Market, which brings together the local community for an opportunity to enjoy locally sourced produce including artisan bread and cakes, meat, fish and vegetables.

Aside from local shopping facilities, Kingston Upon Thames is just a mile away, and hosts several major retailers within its shopping district. Over 28 Million people come to Kingston each year to enjoy London's third largest shopping location. Along with leading retail brands from Zara and the Apple Store, residents will also find exclusive boutiques like Rituals, Jo Malone and other up and coming new designers in this shopping district.

ACADEMIC INSTITUTIONS

Surbiton is fantastically situated to cater to the needs of a first-rate education. These include Tolworth School for Girls, a large school that retains selection at 11+. The school has earned many national awards including Investors in People, Healthy Schools and Arts mark Gold. By extension Surbiton lies near the internationally renowned Kingston University which offers a wide range of undergraduate and postgraduate courses for UK and international students including courses in the humanities, life sciences and arts.

THE DEVELOPMENT

The site is located within an urban block, on land to the rear of Ewell Road. The proposed development aims to create an oasis of green space behind the busy streets through natural landscape design. Oakhill Mews features three very spacious freehold terraced houses, consisting of two expansive bedrooms, each with a private front and back gardens. The architectural features and materiality of the proposal have a direct relationship with developments in the surrounding area. The use of cream stone on the façade gifts a contemporary touch whilst complimenting similar materials used by surrounding buildings.

One of the major factors within the design is the articulation of bay elements in plans and framing of the fenestration and doors. We have taken into account the historical significance of the surrounding area. The anemone leaf pattern used as a screen on the first-floor bay windows is taken from John Richard Jefferies's books, who was an English novelist, living in what is now called 296 Ewell Road.

Every apartment at Oakhill Mews has been carefully designed with the resident in mind. We have carried out extensive research and carefully selected all fixtures and fittings in order to create sophisticated, practical and contemporary apartments.

The kitchens in each unit will benefit from a variety of carefully considered features. All cupboards and storage units will be 'handle-less', ensuring that the space is highly functional and aesthetically pleasing. We also offer a stunning selection of doors in a range of colours as well as stylish stone countertops, integrated dishwashers and washing machines, fridge freezers and overhead cabinets. Each kitchen will also boast feature taps, chrome switch plates and under-wall unit lights.
